PROTECT NATURAL OIL OF SHOES IN INCLEMENT WEATHER

By Mary Jacoby Fleetham

(Home Economics Representative)

Wet fall weather, limited leather supplies and increased war-time footwork are making it harder to "keep 'em walking" these days. Shoes bought with the new ration stamp after November 1 will get off to a good start if kept clean, dry and polished during the "breaking in" period when the shoe is adjusting to the foot.

Since shoes lose natural oils and wear out faster when wet, they should be protected with overshoes in bad weather. Protective coatings for smooth-leathered footwear, new or old, are suggested. Ordinary floor wax, rubbed on sparingly after regular polishing, helps to preserve dress or street shoes. For heavy work shoes, rub in warm tallow or wool grease, or cod, castor, or neat's-foot oil.

For shoes caught out in Autumn rains minus rubbers this first-aid treatment should be followed:

Clean smooth-leathered shoes carefully and give them a very light coating of castor oil before drying. Then stuff the toes with paper, or use shoe trees, and allow them to dry at room temperature with a good circulation of air. Never give shoes the "hot foot" by trying to dry them in an oven, on a radiator, or close to an open fire! That weakens the leather and makes it brittle. When dry, the shoes may be polished and given a light coating of wax.

Patent leather, which tends to crack in cold weather, gets more brittle as it dries out after a soaking. To keep patent protected, rub on vaseline regularly, wiping any excess away with a soft cloth. Suede shoes take a beating in rainy weather. If they get wet, dry slowly, brush gently and rub any slicked down places with fine sandpaper. Gentle brushing is always the rule for suede or fabric shoes.

Dewey Says That F. D. R.'s Memory Fails In History

Dewey told reporters at a press conference aboard his train. "His memory seems to have failed him in large areas of recent history. So, I'll fill in this gap in my Minneapolis speech."

The GOP nominee said he had intended to make a farm speech tonight, but that he thought he could delay it for a few days "to fill in the context Mr. Roosevelt forgot to fill in Saturday night."

One of the items of "recent history" Gov. Dewey intends to dwell upon is the shipping of scrap iron and oil to a nation already plotting the sneak attack at Pearl Harbor.

The Dewey speech in Minnesota, first of his campaign in the Middle West, follows announcement by Republican Senator Joseph H. Ball of Minnesota that he will support President Roosevelt because he prefers the latter's foreign policies to those of Gov. Dewey.

Democratic leaders hope enough so-called Independents will follow Bell's example to carry Minnesota and several other close States for President Roosevelt, but Governor Dewey is said to be confident he can prevent such a development through the medium of his speech tonight.

When and where the farm speech will be given is not known, but it probably will be delayed until after Gov. Dewey completes his present tour with a talk at Chicago tomorrow night.

Soon after his return to Albany Thursday afternoon, the Governor is expected to issue a call for a special session of the Legislature, probably for Monday, to extend the voting hours in New York City, where the registration is heavy.

His counsel, Charles D. Breitler, is meeting in Albany today with members of the New York City Board of Elections to go over the matter, and Breitler will report his findings to Mr. Dewey later in the week.

The Republican nominee did not comment on the pro-Roosevelt declaration by Sen. Ball, explaining he had not seen it at the time of the train press conference.

Asked if he planned to discuss tonight the question of granting to the U. S. Representative on the projected United Nations Council advance authority to act on the calling out of American forces to maintain world peace, Gov. Dewey replied: "I doubt if I will go into any details. I don't know to what extent I'll commit the party or myself to a precise formula in a matter still subject to negotiation. The matter, I am sure, will be worked out successfully between the executive and legislative branches."

President Roosevelt, in his Saturday speech, said the necessary advance authority should be granted by Congress to the U. S. representative. It was largely upon the basis of that statement that Senator Ball announced his support of the President.

"Do you think your Minneapolis speech will be of interest to Senator Ball?" Gov. Dewey was asked. "I am quite sure," he replied, "that the speech will be of interest to all good Americans."

Referring to the President's attack upon alleged isolationists among the Republicans in Congress, reporters asked Mr. Dewey if he would attack, in kind, some of the Democrats in Congress.

"I don't think I'll bother with Mr. Roosevelt's isolationists," was the reply. "He has two of them as chairmen. Everybody knows about that."

Following an exchange of greetings at the Minneapolis railroad station with a group of officials headed by Gov. Edward J. Thye of Minnesota, the Republican nominee was to spend the afternoon conferring with representatives of labor and agriculture, and with GOP Congressional candidates.

He will leave Minneapolis at midnight for Milwaukee, where, for three hours after his arrival at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow, he will confer with party leaders. He is expected to make a speech at the Milwaukee station.

Gov. Dewey will proceed to Chicago at 12:30 p. m. tomorrow, arriving there two hours later. His Chicago speech will be delivered at the Chicago Stadium, after which he will leave for the return trip to Albany.

How to keep a house from catching cold!

ONE way to keep a house from getting cold is by weatherstripping all doors and windows. Closing up the cracks that let cold in—and heat out.

There is going to be some shortage of coal delivered to homes this winter. Not because less coal is being mined. It is estimated that 29 millions more tons of bituminous coal will be mined this year than last—with fewer men. Quite a tribute to mine owners and miners alike!

There are adequate rail facilities for hauling the coal to your city. But certain grades of coal are going to be greatly in demand for war production. And your coal dealer is handicapped by a shortage of manpower, trucks and tires. So be patient with him.

Little, common-sense precautions can make your coal pile last 10% longer—and save that much on your fuel bill.

Such things as weatherstripping, cleaning the heating system, closing off unused rooms, firing carefully, and drawing your shades at night can help to keep your family snug and warm.

One of the biggest jobs of the C & O Lines is hauling coal from the mines along its routes, so we're in a position to understand the problem, and to know how essential coal is these days.

BRITISH SECOND ARMY PENETRATES INTO HERTOGENBOSCH

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force—Assault units of the British Second Army penetrated into the outskirts of the Dutch city of Hertogenbosch today in the mounting Allied drive to smash Nazi military forces out of western Holland.

The push into the environs of Hertogenbosch, key German defense point and a strategic road hub, was effected as other Britons and forces of the Canadian First Army scored gains all along a 100-mile irregular front.

South of Hertogenbosch the British reached Saint Michielsgestel and struck to within a mile of Bommel.

Canadian troops in the Schelde River area south of Bommel continued to make progress, headquarters said, despite the water-logged condition of the terrain they had to traverse.

The Canadians also seized the bitterly-contested estuary town of Schindjel. Despite unfounded reports to the contrary, they also tightened their hold on liberated Breda and seized the road running south to Schoondivke.

Advanced forces drove to within a mile of the village of Groede.
North of Antwerp, gains were made west of the Roosendaal-Antwerp railway and a fresh advance was made into Holland from across the Belgian frontier.

Although weather restricted air operations over the area, heavy bombers went in during yesterday afternoon, headquarters announced, to blast German gun emplacements on Walcheren Island. Four of the fighter-escorted bombers were lost.

The rest of the western front remained comparatively quiet, except for the Third Army sector around Metz where house to house fighting continued, with the Germans clinging stubbornly to approximately one-fourth of the town.

CHILL WEATHER FAILS TO HALT THE ALLIES

Rome—The onset of bleak, chill winter weather along the Italian front today failed to halt either the American Fifth or British Eighth Armies, the Yanks gaining in their drive on Bologna and the Tommies moving ahead through the marshy lowland near Cervia in the Adriatic sector. Stubborn Nazi forces clung doggedly to the Apennine ridge, facing Lieut. Gen. Mark Wayne Clark's Fifth Army, but the doughboys improved their position to some degree in the seizure of a number of hills, north of Monte Grande.

The subsector near Monte Grande fell into American hands only after a day of heavy fighting. Bitterest battle of all, however, continued to rage in the vicinity of Monte Belmonte, key high ground that bars the Fifth Army's approach to Bologna. In flank action at this point, British, Indian and South African units captured several important hills.

The British Eighth Army on the Adriatic coast, meanwhile, indicted "considerable casualties" upon the enemy, particularly north of the Cesena bridgehead.

Communities

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

Two veteran football coaches of Doylestown community, with their captains, were honored at the weekly dinner meeting of the Kiwanis Club in Doylestown.

They are William E. Wolfe, director of physical education at Doylestown High for the past 20 years, and Samuel E. Samuels, atletic coach at National Farm School for the past 21 years.

This year both coaches so far have undefeated football teams, although the two men have far different setups at this time. Farm School's squad of players is limited to 13 men, while Doylestown High has the largest squad in years and one of the very best in 19 years.

Captain-guests included Everett Fretz, of Doylestown High, and Alvin Dannenberg, of Indiana, a young man who was stricken with infantile paralysis when a young boy.

Kiwanis President Frank L.
Worthington welcomed the guests and assured them that Kiwanis was always 100 per cent behind both teams. He promised them a "repeat banquet" whether their teams are champions or not.

The staff and foremen of the Vulcanized Rubber Company, Morrisville, gave a dinner Wednesday night to John Harrop and James Flynn, who have recently completed 50 years service with the company.

James Quill and Clinton Burns Are Both Reported
Wounded in France

ENTERED TOGETHER

MORRISVILLE, Oct. 23—Private
First Class James Quill and Clinton Burns, cousins, left for service together, saw action in the same theatres and now are both listed as war casualties. Private Quill has been reported missing in action in France since September 21, while Private Burns was seriously wounded in action on French soil August 11.

James Quill is the son of Mrs.
Lydia Quill, 40 Green street, and after enlisting in the army left for duty on November 9, 1942. He subsequently received training at Camp Wheeler, Ga., and after only four months in this country left for overseas, landing in Africa. From there he took part in the invasion of Sicily, and later was sent to England. With the infantry he was a member of the D-Day invasion of France and after seeing action there was sent back to England for hospitalization. Then in the early part of September he was again sent to France where he was in

The Strategy Changed

Washington, Oct. 21—
AS the campaign reaches its final stage, the thing that encourages
the Republicans
more than anything else is accumulating evidence of the degree to which the fourth-term management is disturbed. All its complicity has vanished. It has been put definitely on the defensive.

To get out of that painful position Mr. Roosevelt fell in with the strongly urged plans to supplement his New York speech with a spectacular tour of the city.

—O—

THIS is to be followed by a series of speeches, in Cleveland, Chicago, Boston and elsewhere, which he never had intended to make but which he has been convinced now are essential if indispensable States are to be held for him. At the same time the tune of his political and press spokesmen has changed. Instead of the amused tolerance with which they were disposed to treat Governor Dewey at the start, a stream of snarling abuse is now directed at him.

—O—

EVERY charge he makes, every time he hits a tender spot, and particularly every time he quotes the New Deal against itself, screams of pain and rage are evoked. He is denounced as a falsifier, accused of "deliberate misrepresentation" and "dishonesty" depicted as a small man ready to descend to any depth in order to be elected. None of this is true; all of it is a tribute to the effectiveness of the Dewey attack and testimony of perturbation on the other side. If the attack did not hurt and the polls showing a Dewey trend did not worry, the fourth-termers would be supercilious instead of savage, calm instead of excited.

—O—

BUT, they are neither supercilious nor calm. On the contrary, they are plainly alarmed, as evidenced by the fact that they now concede the

Make Appointments Now To Give Blood Donation

During the September hurricane a number of blood donors fought their way through wind and water to reach the blood donation headquarters in Philadelphia. As one donor put it: "If the rain stains my suit, I can have it cleaned, but if a marine dies on some island because I didn't go, I can't have my conscience cleaned."

Residents of this area are being urged to make appointments for donations when the blood donor unit of the American Red Cross is in Bristol November 2nd, 3rd, and 4th. Phone the blood donor chairman, Mrs. T. B. Megargee, 2920.

the board of trustees, introduced the program participants, with members of the Women's Society for Christian Service outlining the activities.

Congregational singing was followed by remarks by the Rev.
George E. Boswell, rector of St.
James' Episcopal Church and dean of the Bristol protestant clergymen; the Rev. W. E. Preston Haas, pastor of Bristol Methodist Church;

"CLEAR EVERYTHING WITH SIDNEY"

PART NINE
CAUTION, DANGER AHEAD
(Doylestown Intelligence)

In politics as in life there are many forces which, like a loaded gun, are dangerous whether actually being used or merely left lying around.

This is true of the PAC movement.

Waiving for the moment all question of Sidney Hill-man's intentions and methods, the fact still remains that in the politico-labor pressure group which he has created lies one of the most deadly menaces ever to come across the horizon of American national life.

What one man can build, another man can seize and divert to his own purposes.

It is when we consider the obvious dangers should the Political Action Committees fall into still more ruthless hands that we realize how far they are from being merely the sort of "grass roots" labor movement their advocates represent them to be.

In many ways the potential dangers are even more alarming than the present abuses.

The tight-woven and well-controlled organization is not self-liquidating—it will not disband at the end of the campaign. Plans for its future life are well known to the public.

In the spinning of the wheels of labor leadership, it is quite possible for new individuals and new forces to seize control of PAC.

Regardless of what Hillman has done or has not done, there can certainly be little question that the man who holds the reins of the PAC is in a position, if he wishes, to seize the greatest power of any individual in our history.

Forget Hillman. Forget the controversies over what has already happened. Remember merely that PAC is what an organization embracing the millions of CIO union members, able to raise vast fortunes in political collections, equipped with the full machinery of union government to make clear its will to the membership, focussing this power in a single officer.

Assume the structure also to have been validated, so to speak, by victory at the polls.

Is it not clear that, regardless of what Hillman may or may not have done, any future boss over PAC can then do with impunity all and more than Hillman has ever been accused of?

Once the machinery is in operation, there is no limit to the potential amount of political funds which could be levied—the $1 "voluntary" contribution might, for example, be multiplied many times over.

The pressure which union devices can apply to individual members, once the lid is off, is beyond any power of resistance. In a tight union, the employee who offends his union officials has little further chance to hold his job.

Given access to unlimited slush funds, given power by which he could compel union members and their families to vote according to dictation, such a theoretical future boss of the PAC would hold the balance of power at every important election.

STUDENTS OBSERVE 300th ANNIVERSARY OF WILLIAM PENN

Formal Programs Conducted
In Some Assemblies
Here Today

SOME COMPOSITIONS

Others Correlate Study with Their Various Subjects

Three hundred years ago today there was born in England a boy who was destined to have his name known throughout the world.

The memory of that individual, William Penn, is being honored today, not only by adults throughout the world and in Pennsylvania in particular, but by girls and boys who admire his excellent character and the things which he accomplished.

Work of the founder of this state is known particularly to residents of this area through the restoration of the manor house at his country estate, "Pennsbury," along the Delaware River, above Tully-town. Many girls and boys have made their way to "Pennsbury" to visit the mansion rebuilt 300 years after the birth of Penn and closely following his orders and suggestions for the original building.

A number of formal programs are being held in the schools of the state in honor of Penn; while in many class rooms recitations are woven about his life and works.

In Bristol high school, grades eight to 12, a week is being devoted to the study of Penn in social study classes. This is being correlated with study in the English classes, each teacher outlining her own course of study for the students.

Penn's life is being followed in connection with social studies at the Wood street building also. At the assembly program this morning, there were included: Salute to his flag; prayer; recitations and stories regarding William Penn.
During the past few days the girls and boys have taken to school pictures they have clipped from newspapers and magazines which deal with the life of the founder and which show scenes at the restored manor house at "Pennsbury."

In each room at Bath street school today there was a celebration in honor of the 300th anniversary of Penn's birth. Grades four, five and six conducted a joint assembly program this morning, with the program revolving about Penn's works.

Jefferson avenue pupils are much interested in their studies of the life of Penn also. Grade one is

ROOSEVELT FEARS DEFEAT

The spectacle of the Hillman-Browder-backed fourth term candidate hiding behind White House anonymity to complain that Governor Thomas E. Dewey is "misquoting" some of the denizens of the New Deal zoo and misrepresenting their aims, is the best evidence to date that the Racket Buster has the strange assortment of misfits in Washington shaking with the fear of approaching defeat.

How it would be possible to misrepresent or misquote the utterances and aims of the cohorts of the New Deal high command, except in a manner that would flatter them, the anonymous White House spokesman fails to state. Is it possible that the thought has not penetrated into the precincts of indispensability that patriotic Americans regard New Deal bureaucrats with distrust and that the only complaint they have to offer is that Mr. Dewey does not pour it on more vigorously?

This anonymous White House source releases a letter or something by Draft Director Hershey in which the latter explains that when he said it would be cheaper to keep soldiers in the Army after the war than to keep them on relief, it was he—Hershey—talking. Well, that is what Mr. Dewey said—that Draft Director Hershey advocated keeping American soldiers in the Army after the war because it would be cheaper than to keep them on relief. But this White House anonymity releases the Hershey letter, in the apparent belief that some morons would be so dumb as to think this disproved what Mr. Dewey said.

Such antics are the gyrations of frustration. The fourth term candidate, backed by Browder and Hillman, sense approaching political catastrophe and discards reason and cunning for the dunce cap, which he once bestowed with generous abandon upon those who didn't recognize political acumen when they saw it.

It has been apparent for weeks to newspaper reporters who have flocked to the White House for a helping of Rooseveltian repartee, that the master politician isn't what he used to be. Many of them report that, as defeat becomes daily more inevitable, Mr. Roosevelt has discarded his bold front and has become sulky. They say, in effect, that he cannot face defeat. And few doubt that he has become convinced that November 7 will be political doomsday for himself and his grandiose following of bureaucrats.

The American people at long last have the opportunity to remove this strange assortment of communistic bureaucrats from Washington because, for the first time in Roosevelt's reign, the issue has been brought before the voters in its true colors. The Brownsheds and the Hillmans are out in the open, and are backing the fourth term with activity that borders on desperation. The communists know that this is their one, supreme opportunity.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

lection will be close and, despite advertised betting odds, admit the Roosevelt victory is not assured. There is a complete absence of the "in the bag" talk. There is admission that this is the toughest fight Mr. Roosevelt has ever had, which is a great contrast to the attitude in the early part of the campaign. Then the fourth-term managers were contemptuous of Governor Dewey. They are no longer contemptuous; they are mad and scared. Reliance is now placed upon Mr. Roosevelt's ability to stop the undoubted trend against him through personal appearance and personal appeals.

PERHAPS he can do it. He is an exceedingly effective campaigner. His voice, his personality and the character of his speeches all have been assets in former campaigns. He may check the Dewey trend and, before election day, swing the people once more in his direction. That is what he and his managers count upon, and no effort will be spared to follow up his speeches with an assault that will put Mr. Dewey in the defensive position instead of the President. But two things should be remembered: first, that Mr. Roosevelt never made a fight when the tide was not running in his direction; second, he never had as agile, hard-hitting and fast-thinking an opponent.

AT ANY rate, the change in Mr. Roosevelt's position is striking and significant. Last July, broadcasting from the West Coast where he had gone on a "trip of inspection," he told his nominating convention and the people that as Commander in Chief he, of course, would not run "in the usual partisan sense." At that time he didn't think he would need to. At that time he felt he could again go through the campaign ignoring his opponent, pretending to be unconcerned about the outcome, living upon a plane high above all partisan and personal considerations. But he isn't on that plane now. He came down to make his first political speech to the teamsters' union last month, which was a mistake, because Governor Dewey has not let him get back up on it. Now, he is out campaigning in the usual partisan way.

out after votes, trying all he knows how to hold on to his job; doing, in fact, exactly the thing he told the people he would not do. This is not the way Mr. Roosevelt planned it, and it is not the way the White House strategists planned it.

HE WAS to go through the campaign wrapped in the cloak of the Commander in Chief, indifferent to his own political fortunes, concerned solely about the war. Conduct of the campaign was to be left wholly to the National Committee, the White House strategists and the Hillman agencies. All the President was expected to do was hold the pose. But he hasn't been able to do it. His first political speech, written by the talented dramatist, Mr. Sherwood, and supposed to make a joke of the Dewey campaign, was torn to shreds. It opened wide the door of opportunity for

Mr. Dewey, who took full advantage. If Mr. Roosevelt should be beaten, it will be clear that that speech was the fatal blunder. Since then he has not been the drafted Commander in Chief, reluctant but willing to serve if the people want- ed. Since then he has been an alarmed and eager candidate, campaigning as hard as he knows how to stave off defeat. He has power, prestige and highly skilled literary aides. In the next two weeks he may be able to put himself over—in a big way. It is quite certain he will leave nothing undone to do so.

By the Rev. Richard R. Gay
Pastor
Hulmeville Methodist Church

O Lord God, heavenly Father, we thank Thee for Thy grace that thou hast sent us Thy Son and hast appointed Him to be the King of righteousness and our Saviour and Redeemer, who should rescue us from the dominion of darkness and bestow on us righteousness, salvation and blessedness. May He take up His abode among us and within us and may we ever continue in His Kingdom and allegiance.

Restrain and check all influences that would close the door against Him and forbid Him to come in. But show forth Thy power and mercy on the poor sons of men who are bound in the fetters of oppression or the dreariness of unbelief, in idolatry, false doctrines or utter careless ungodliness; may Christ now come also unto them and set up His kingdom of light, truth and righteousness. Amen.

PROTECT NATURAL OIL OF SHOES IN INCLEMENT WEATHER

By Mary Jacoby Fleetham
(Home Economics Representative)

Shoes bought with the new ration stamp after November 1 will get off to a good start if kept clean, dry and polished during the "breaking in" period when the shoe is adjusting to the foot.

Since shoes lose natural oils and wear out faster when wet, they should be protected with overshoes in bad weather. Protective coatings for smooth-leathered footwear, new or old, are suggested. Ordinary floor wax, rubbed on sparingly after regular polishing, helps to preserve dress or street shoes. For heavy work shoes, rub in warm tallow or wool grease, or cod, castor, or neat's-foot oil.

For shoes caught out in Autumn rains minus rubbers this first-aid treatment should be followed:

light coating of castor oil before drying. Then stuff the toes with paper, or use shoe trees, and allow them to dry at room temperature with a good circulation of air. Never give shoes the "hot foot" by trying to dry them in an oven, on a radiator, or close to an open fire! That weakens the leather and makes it brittle. When dry, the shoes may be polished and given a light coating of wax.

Patent leather, which tends to crack in cold weather, gets more brittle as it dries out after a soaking. To keep patent protected, rub on vaseline regularly, wiping any excess away with a soft cloth.

Suede shoes take a beating in rainy weather. If they get wet, dry slowly, brush gently and rub any slicked down places with fine sandpaper. Gentle brushing is always the rule for suede or fabric shoes.

To buy, to sell, or to exchange—the classified column of the Courier will bring the desired results.

Dewey Says That F. D. R.'s Memory Fails In History

Dewey told reporters at a press conference aboard his train. "His memory seems to have failed him on large areas of recent history. So, I'll fill in this gap in my Minneapolis speech."

The GOP nominee said he had intended to make a farm speech tonight, but that he thought he could delay it for a few days "to fill in the context Mr. Roosevelt forgot to fill in Saturday night."

One of the items of "recent history" Gov. Dewey intends to dwell upon is the shipping of scrap iron and oil to a nation already plotting the sneak attack at Pearl Harbor.

The Dewey speech in Minnesota, first of his campaign in the Middle West, follows announcement by Republican Senator Joseph H. Ball of Minnesota that he will support President Roosevelt because he prefers the latter's foreign policies to those of Gov. Dewey.

Democratic leaders hope enough so-called independents will follow Ball's example to carry Minnesota and several other close States for President Roosevelt, but Governor Dewey is said to be confident he can prevent such a development through the medium of his speech tonight.

When and where the farm speech will be given is not known, but it probably will be delayed until after Gov. Dewey completes his present tour with a talk at Chicago tomorrow night.

Soon after his return to Albany Thursday afternoon, the Governor is expected to issue a call for a special session of the Legislature, probably for Monday, to extend the voting hours in New York City, where the registration is heavy.

His counsel, Charles D. Breitell, is meeting in Albany today with members of the New York City Board of Elections to go over the matter, and Breitell will report his findings to Mr. Dewey later in the week.

The Republican nominee did not comment on the pro-Roosevelt declaration by Sen. Ball, explaining he had not seen it at the time of the train press conference.

Asked if he planned to discuss tonight the question of granting to the U. S. Representative on the projected United Nations Council advance authority to act on the calling out of American forces to maintain world peace, Gov. Dewey replied:

"I doubt if I will go into any details. I don't know to what extent I'll commit the party or myself to a precise formula in a matter still subject to negotiation. The matter, I am sure, will be worked out successfully between the executive and legislative branches."

President Roosevelt, in his Saturday speech, said the necessary advance authority should be granted by Congress to the U. S. representative. It was largely upon the basis of that statement that Senator Ball announced his support of the President.

"Do you think your Minneapolis speech will be of interest to Senator Ball?" Gov. Dewey was asked. "I am quite sure," he replied, "that the speech will be of interest to all good Americans."

Referring to the President's attack upon alleged isolationists among the Republicans in Congress, reporters asked Mr. Dewey if he would attack, in kind, some of the Democrats in Congress.

"I don't think I'll bother with Mr. Roosevelt's isolationists," was the reply. "He has two of them as chairmen. Everybody knows about that."

Following an exchange of greetings at the Minneapolis railroad station with a group of officials headed by Gov. Edward J. Thye of Minnesota, the Republican nominee was to spend the afternoon conferring with representatives of labor and agriculture, and with GOP Congressional candidates.

He will leave Minneapolis at midnight for Milwaukee, where, for three hours after his arrival at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow, he will confer with party leaders. He is expected to make a speech at the Milwaukee station.

Gov. Dewey will proceed to Chicago at 12:30 p. m. tomorrow, arriving there two hours later. His Chicago speech will be delivered at the Chicago Stadium, after which he will leave for the return trip to Albany.

How to keep a house from catching cold!

ONE WAY to keep a house from getting cold is by weatherstripping all doors and windows. Closing up the cracks that let cold in—and heat out.

There is going to be some shortage of coal delivered to homes this winter. Not because less coal is being mined. It is estimated that 29 millions more tons of bituminous coal will be mined this year than last—with fewer men. Quite a tribute to mine owners and miners alike!

There are adequate rail facilities for hauling the coal to your city. But certain grades of coal are going to be greatly in demand for war production. And your coal dealer is handicapped by a shortage of manpower, trucks and tires. So be patient with him.

Little, common-sense precautions can make your coal pile last 10% longer—and save that much on your fuel bill.

Such things as weatherstripping, cleaning the heating system, closing off unused rooms, firing carefully, and drawing your shades at night can help to keep your family snug and warm.

One of the biggest jobs of the C & O Lines is hauling coal from the mines along its routes, so we're in a position to understand the problem, and to know how essential coal is these days.
